

The Eternal esteemed highly the offering of Abel, but he had no regard to that of Cain, whose heart was bad. Cain was very wroth, and, finding himself alone with his brother in the fields, moved by anger and jealousy, he killed him.

R. Blum