

Bob Seigel

By Sue Neuhaus

Bob Seigel is Hillel's claim to the South. He hails from Charleston, S.C., and is vice president of the Hillel Foundation at the University of Cincinnati.

In his two years on the UC campus, Bob has become active in various campus organizations. He is on Student Council, Arts and Sciences Tribunal, treasurer of Religious Emphasis Week, Student Religious Council, Panel of Americans, and Sigma Alpha Mu. Even with this busy schedule, Bob finds time to teach Sunday School at Temple Shalom.

A junior in the combined UC-HUC pre-rabbinate program, Bob has shown a great interest in Judaism. He was selected as a representative of the Hillel Foundation to attend the National Hillel Summer Institute last summer at Camp B'nai B'rith in Starlight, Pa. Bob's reaction to the institute was: "Hillel Institute was by far the most stimulating experience I ever have encountered. No words could properly describe the values I derived from it."

The Queen City, and especially Hillel, are happy to welcome Bob back again this year, and we hope that he will continue to contribute his wonderful ability to Hillel as well as his many other interests. Bob has truly found a second home in Cincinnati. As he says, "Cincinnati, and especially the Jewish community, have been wonderful to me, making the years I will have here more enjoyable and meaningful."
