

REMEMBERING RABBI INDICH

Rabbi Indich married Jacob and I on Feb. 9, 1969 at Northern Hills Synagogue under the Golf Manor chuppah. The rabbi of Northern Hills at that time, Rabbi Mond, was to have married us but his wife was very ill and they were leaving for Australia so she could be w/ her family.

In 1982 both of our sons, Alan (Alter) and Lee Shane were requested by Ellen Wittow (later Pollock) to join Rabbi Indich to light Chanukah candles and sing Chanukah songs on TV on a Sunday morning.

Ilene Raubvogel

Rabbi Indich married us and officiated at my son's bar mitzvah. He was a person of great inspiration and comfort to me in difficult times. He is missed a lot.

Juanita Weiss

I remember during one Yom Kippur Service in the auditorium, that was where the services were held in English, I was newly married and our family sat in the front row. Everyone knew me including Rabbi Indich to be a sort of a wise guy so when from his chair on the stage the rabbi looked at me with a face that could kill, my father-in-law leaned over and asked me what I had done. Rabbi Indich then came down from the stage stood at the foot of steps and motioned for me to follow him out through side door. Once outside, I asked him what I did wrong, that my father-in-law will want to know. He said, "Nothing is wrong, I just needed an excuse to take a break. I always felt close to Rabbi Indich and considered him to be my good friend and I miss his friendship.

Woody Weinstein

